

We, the participants of the 1st edition of the National Prevention Day, hereby declare

our willingness for further cooperation among all entities dealing with the issue of crime and its prevention.

We support mutual meetings of a wide range of prevention entities through continuation of the National Prevention Days platform.

We encourage central bodies, regional, municipal and local authorities, schools, institutes and institutions and non-governmental non-profit sector to support such meetings.

We support further development of cooperation with non-governmental sector which we consider to be one of essential pillars of civic society and irreplaceable implementer of numerous helpful projects that are beneficial for crime prevention.

We call for a larger support for scientific research in the area of criminology, continuous professional analysis of causes and conditions of crime and the status of safety perception among citizens on local level and for more effective use of these findings in development of particular prevention programmes as well as conceptual and strategic documents related to crime prevention.

We express our wish for crime prevention to be systematically and permanently embedded in our legal system.

In relation with security threats and challenges, we intend to continue innovating and developing our activities at all levels and appeal for adequate financial support for prevention activities.

In our professional and private life we intend to struggle for safe society where nobody is threatened on property, health and life, nobody is blackmailed and is not blackmailable.
